BRYAN IS PREPARING SECOND STATEMENT ABOUT RESIGNATION

for us to understand that a minister, at a time when his country was discussing with Germany so grave a question as the use of submarines against merchant ships, could part company with his chief executive and openly declare that he is in complete disagreement with him as to the methods to be employed.

"We should say this minister had not the right to diminish the prestige of his government before foreign countries, but Mr. Bryan has a double excuse. First of all, ministerial discipline must have seemed rather irksome to a man who so many times has aimed at the presidency. Then, his departure does not in any way lessen the prestige of his government for that prestige rests on the ardent patriotism of the American people, on the deep sense of justice, honor, high character and popularity of President Wilson, and last but not least, on the powerful fleet which President Wilson reviewed last week."

English Papers Believe

War Is Not Inevitable

LONDON, June 10.—Remarks that while it was a legend of the war press that Mr. Bryan was a bitter enemy and a strong partisan of the allies, he has resigned rather than sign a document he fears may lead to war with Germany, the Daily News says:

"The truth is, of course, he never was anti-German or pro-English, but always a good American and a confirmed pacifist. That the American press should assail Bryan so mercilessly suggests that the order in America which avoided European entanglements is vanishing. No continent can isolate itself and live cut its political life without heed to what is passing elsewhere."

The war between two European powers brings the shadow of war to the horizon of the United States. We should go very far wrong if we assume that war or a diplomatic rupture is in the air, or that the American people are certain or highly probable outcome of the dispute. President Wilson will spare no effort to preserve peace and the rulers of Germany can be under no illusion as to the magnitude of the disaster a conflict with the United States would mean."

GERMANY'S ILLUSIONS.

"The United States has the greatest manufacturing plants in the world—the largest population of factories recruiting material, the most inventive brains—it is in fact a formidable enemy. Germany trifled with the United States because it had two illusions. One was that under no circumstances could America fight and the other was that the German-American element would prevent the United States government from taking strong action by the menace of civil war. There is no longer a room for either of these illusions and under the circumstances it is reasonable to conclude the most serious efforts will be made to avert a rupture. Settlement is hardly practicable, however, unless tactics of procrastination are abandoned by Germany and American ships and American lives made secure."

"Those who are responsible to the dispute can safely leave it to President Wilson and the American people who need no advice from Germany. The duty of reticence is particularly obligatory on belligerents whose judgment hardly can be impartial and whose counsel might confuse rather than illuminate."

The Standard says the retirement of Mr. Bryan seems unlikely to produce any serious effect upon American opinion. "The position which, indeed, will be stronger without the presence of this subordinate who says the cause nearest his heart is the prevention of war."

The same cause," the paper continues, "is close to the hearts of millions of other Americans, including the president, who is no more in sympathy with militarism than Mr. Bryan himself. But President Wilson knows that what is even more important than the prevention of war is the prevention of brutal outrage upon humanity and the violation of all the rules which divide civilized men from savages."

"It would be premature to assume," says the Express, "that there will be any formal breach between Germany and the United States. Nobody here will attempt to instruct the United States how to mind its own business."

We know America must always be on the side of liberty and progress and that her power to defend her dignity and rights is as great as her love of peace. It would be easy to exaggerate the importance and significance of Mr. Bryan's resignation."

The Post criticizes Mr. Bryan for being unwilling to sacrifice his personal ideals to the honor and interest of his country, which should be the cause nearest the heart of a statesman.

The Post expresses the belief that war between the United States and Germany is not inevitable, and adds: "On the contrary it is not improbable war still may be avoided. A strong and self-respecting attitude is more likely to avert war than concession and surrender."

Resignation of Bryan

Big News in Germany

BERLIN, June 10.—[Via London.]—The resignation of Secretary of State Bryan was the big news of the day here yesterday, overshadowing in interest even the reports of military operations. The newspapers showed divergent views interpreting the event and advised caution in forming opinions before an authentic explanation is received from Washington. The Lokal Anzeiger was the only paper to print what purports to have been Mr. Bryan's letter to President Wilson explaining his resignation.

The newspaper questions the authenticity of this letter.

The Vossische Zeitung assumes President Wilson favored a sharper note to Germany than Mr. Bryan, but also that he does not desire war.

"Probably America's foreign policy," the paper says, "will be less English hereafter, although of course it will not be German or German-American, but we hope American. That would be more important than the wording of the note."

Discussing the resignation of Mr. Bryan as secretary of state, the Tageblatt, while not imputing to him pro-German sympathies and declaring that at times he even has seemed less friendly than President Wilson, assumed that his political experience "recalled from sharp action."

Germany, a Catholic organ, thinks Mr. Bryan's retirement means an important change in the American policy toward German interests.

The Vorwaerts and the Tageszeitung are the only morning newspapers in Berlin which comment on the resignation.

WILLIAMS TELLS WHY LOUISIANA BANK FAILED

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 10.—Comptroller Williams today issued a statement on the closing of the Union National bank of Monroe, La., with a capital of $200,000 and $40,000 surplus. The bank was closed yesterday by its directors.

"Its troubles," said the comptroller's statement, "appear to have been caused by improvident management, excessive loans to certain officers and directors, disregard of the provisions of the national bank laws, and failure of the directors to give proper attention to the bank's affairs."

PLAYGROUNDS OF ATLANTA OPEN MONDAY MORNING

Children Will Be Taught Many New Games and Big Attendance Is Expected

An American flag will be raised at a clock Monday morning on each of the thirteen public playgrounds of Atlanta, and then the season looked forward to by so many thousands of children will be on.

Mrs. Florence M. Tibbets, supervisor, announces that the playgrounds will be opened Monday morning, not to be closed again until August 21.

Two new playgrounds, one on the Ivy street school lot and the other on the school grounds, will be opened up this year. There are two playgrounds for negro children, one at the Gray street school and the other at Starr's school.

A director and an assistant will be in charge at each playground from 9 o'clock to 11:30 o'clock in the morning and from 2 to 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Since early in March the candidates for positions as directors and assistants have been attending a normal class conducted at Piedmont park by Mrs. Tibbets, and during this week they are taking field examinations. A number of young ladies, who took the normal course last year, will probably be employed in the local system, have been employed as playground directors in other cities.

The children this year will be taught a large number of new games and attendance of past years will probably be broken.

The playground season will end with a great field day, and a number of silver cups have already been donated as prizes for different field day events.

The following is a list of the playgrounds and the directors, who will be in charge of them:

Pine Hill, Miss Martha Winsborough, director; Miss Nell Miller, assistant; Mims Park, Miss Lora Pinnell, director; Inver Park, Miss Katherine Colley, director; Miss Annie Lee McGee, assistant; English avenue, Miss Nell Ferguson, director; Miss Helen Marshall, assistant; Adair Park, Miss Ruth Weeg, director; Ponce de Leon, Miss Mary Holland, director; Springdale Park, Miss Baker, assistant; Dargan Park, Miss Laura Cooper, director; Miss Lucy May, assistant; Springdale Park, Miss Robbie Workman, director; Ivy Street school, Miss Helen Manning, director; Mrs. Emily Hargrove, assistant; Ira street school, Miss Annie Wilby, director; Miss Katherine Burtel, assistant; Grand Park, Miss Mary Whitley, director; Miss Emma Hill, assistant; "Colorado" Starr's school, Alice Cary, director; Gray Street school, Willie Keller, director.

J. EPPS BROWN NAMED DIRECTOR OF CHAMBER

J. Epps Brown, president and general manager of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, was unanimously elected a director of the Atlanta chamber of commerce at the meeting held Wednesday afternoon in the directors' room of the chamber.

Brown was elected to fill the unexpired term of J. R. A. Holston, who recently moved to Evansville, Ind., to become the head of a telephone company affiliated with the Southern Bell.

THEATERS

Kitty Gordon continues to draw packed audiences at the Forsyth. She is Broadway's most widely worshipped star of the drama and musical comedy. Her offering at the Forsyth is a happy blend of dramatic comedy and vocal charm, and she is supported by a strong cast.

Galletti's monkeys is one of the best trained animal acts in vaudeville; Ray Doolley has a team of acrobats, dancers and songbirds that please immensely, and the remainder of the bill is composed of Frank Markley, the phenomenal banjoist, and the Swain Ostrum Trio of gymnastic marvels.

Francis X. Bushman, the most idolized actor on the screen, today is the star of the Grand theater's offering for today, "The Slim Princess," the noted comedy written by George Ade and produced with years of success all over America and Europe. The picture is an Essanay production, the last in which Bushman appeared for that concern, and excels in photography, scenic grandeur and histrionic beauty. Few theatergoers, perhaps, are unacquainted with the story of "The Slim Princess," but added charm will be found in the photographic version which has been pronounced by George Ade, himself, to be the "funniest, most rollicksome comedy he has ever seen in moving pictures." It will be shown at the Grand today and tonight for the last time.

In "Her Own Way," Clyde Fitch's great romantic story which is the feature film at the Strand theater Thursday, there is portrayed a thrilling story of love and adventure during the Spanish-American war.

The heroine is a beautiful girl whose sweetheart enlists in a regiment bound for the Philippines. She believes him killed and is about to marry another to save her family from financial ruin when her soldier, who was only imprisoned, escapes and arrives back home just in time to prevent the marriage.

The picture is a masterpiece of the picture photography and attention to detail which characterizes this company's every film.

"An Old Man at 40"

How often you hear the remark! How many such men there are! And how needless it is!

Wrong food is the big cause.

When one feels old at forty the first thing is to correct improper diet. The main fault with the dietary is often a lack of the vital mineral salts in food. Without these mineral elements old age steals on rapidly.

To meet this very condition a food was devised which supplies those mineral elements such as phosphorus, iron, sulphur, etc.

That food is

Grape-Nuts

Made of whole wheat and barley, this delicious food retains all the nutriment of these grains, together with the priceless mineral elements—notably lacking in white flour foods—which the system must have to build and maintain vigor and elasticity of body, brain and muscle.

One can avoid this "old-age-at-40" business by proper eating and living.

COMMISSION WILL HEAR
M'CAYSVILLE RESIDENTSHearing on Petition of Citizens
Is Set for June 23 by Board

The state railroad commission will on June 23 hold another hearing on the petition of the citizens of the town of Mc Cayville for an order requiring the Louisville and Nashville railroad to erect and maintain a station at that place.

The railroad has opposed the petition on the ground that Mc Cayville is but about 200 yards distant from Cooper Hill, Tenn., which has a station.

On the other hand, the citizens of Mc Cayville contend that the fact that they must go over the Tennessee line for their freight enables the railroad to charge interstate rates, whereas if they had a station on the Georgia side they would be able to enjoy intrastate rates.

Members of the railroad commission on Wednesday inspected the situation at Mc Cayville as well as the situation at the Louisville and Nashville railroad between Atlanta and the Tennessee border.

CHILDREN OF PARISH
WILL ATTEND SERVICE
Services Commemorating 40
Hours of Devotion Begin
Friday

Led by a procession of the children of the parish, services and mass commemorating the beginning of the forty hours devotion will be held at St. Anthony's Catholic church Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

Novena services will be held each night at 8 o'clock and the feast of St. Anthony will be observed with high mass at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

This service will be sung by Father Joseph Morris, C. S. P., the Atlanta boy recently ordained a priest. Father Flanagan will deliver the sermon.

Children of the parish will have their first opportunity to observe communion Sunday morning at the 7 o'clock mass. Other masses will be held at 9 and 10:30 a. m.

The novena will close after this last mass.

NATIONAL PEACE LEAGUE
WILL BE CONSIDERED

With William Howard Taft, ex-president of the United States, presiding, the National provisional committee of Philadelphia will meet June 15 for the purpose of adopting proposals for a national peace league.

Through their president, Roy Dorsney, members of the Atlanta Peace society and other members of peace societies throughout the United States have been invited to attend.

NARROWING ROADS ARE URGED BY MR. MILLS

Commissioner, Home From Inspection Tour, Talks of Improved Methods

Contrasting the 1914 cost of $2,000 for the maintenance of 200 miles of concrete roadway in Wayne county, Michigan, compared with $10,000 for the maintenance of seventy miles of Fulton county roads in 1914, Oscar Mills, county commissioner, returning from a tour of road inspection in the east, middle west and Canada, advocates strongly the building of finer and narrower roads in Fulton county in the future.

Mr. Mills said that most of the fine roads in the north and east were six feet wide, as compared with the average forty-foot road of Fulton. He spoke of a solid concrete road in Canada which had seen hard service for nine years and which did not cost a dollar to keep up.

Mr. Mills will make a detailed report of his trip, with recommendations to the public works committee of the county commissioners at their meeting Saturday.

CHICAGO TROLLEYS ON BRINK OF BIG STRIKE

CHICAGO, June 10.—Strike of 14,500 employees of Chicago street car systems tomorrow night hinged today on the action of the two union committees at a joint conference.

The committee had under consideration a proposal to meet with President J. A. Buehler of the surface lines, to discuss again a plan of arbitration which was rejected by the company before the strike vote was taken.

I Want More Dealers to Handle
My Plant-Ripened Pineapples

They are as different from the ordinary kind as a six-cylinder car is from an ox wagon. Once they have been used, consumers don't want any other pineapples. The satisfaction they give makes them a trade-builder for dealers.

Send today for my special dealer's proposition. It is fair, indeed liberal. Full particulars free.

REG. L. GOODWIN, Sans Souci Plantations, INDIAN RIVER BOULEVARD, FORT PIERCE, FLA.

Readers of this paper who would like to try my plant-ripened pineapples, but are unable to get them from a near-by dealer, will be supplied direct by express. Send for order blank and prices. Address as above.

ADDED ATTRACTION FOR SUNDAY ORGAN CONCERT

In addition to the regular program by City Organist Edwin Arthur Kraft at the free concert Sunday afternoon at the auditorium, there will be piano selections from Wagner, Liszt and Chopin by Joseph Maetz, a noted artist.

Mr. Maetz has won honors in France, England, Germany and America. This is his first public appearance in the south, although he was heard here during grand opera week in a private recital by several members of the Atlanta Music Festival association.

W. A. GHEESLING BACK
FROM WEDDING TRIP

William A. Gheesling, clerk in the office of the city marshal, appeared in the office Thursday for the first time this week to receive the congratulations of his friends.

Mr. Gheesling and Miss Gertrude H. Brandon, daughter of G. H. Brandon, 6 Park street, West End, surprised their many friends last Monday evening, when they were quietly married at the residence of the bride's father.

Then they hastened away for a short honeymoon at Highland Park, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Gheesling are at home at the Cooper apartments.

MACON ELECTRIC PLANTS
ASK TO INCREASE RATES

Companies Review Their Petitions Before the State Railroad Commission

The two electric lighting companies of Macon—Macon Railway and Light company and Georgia Public Service corporation—have renewed their petition with the state railroad commission for authority to materially increase their rates for electric lights and power.

These companies first applied to the commission more than a year ago and after hearing the commission promulgated a schedule of rates for them to charge for a year, and advising them that if, at the end of that time, this schedule of rates had not proven fair and just and brought the companies a fair and reasonable return on their investment they could renew their application, which they have now done.

They are asking that they be allowed to charge the rates set out in their original petition to the commission and that body has set June 22 as the date for a hearing on the petition.

CALOMEL IS MERCURY, IT SICKENS!
CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS GENTLY

Don't lose a day's work! If your liver is sluggish or bowels constipated take "Dodson's Liver Tone."

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick, you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into your bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a teaspoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful, full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not harm anyone. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.—(Adv.)

WHITE TRUCKS

ARE the trucks most generally selected by those houses whose trucking problems call for fleets. Fleets grow gradually. They indicate to the thoughtful business man that the first truck or the first few trucks gave eminent satisfaction—and the fleet grew. Armour & Company's fleet of White Trucks has grown to seventy-three. There is a White that meets YOUR special requirements.

HIVE OF HONEY BEES IS CAPTURED ON ROOF IN HEART OF ATLANTA

HOW THE BEES SWARMED OVER DOWNTOWN ATLANTA THURSDAY. The picture was taken looking from the north windows of The Journal office. The towers of the city hall are in the background, and the air is thick with bees.

Skyscrapers Thronged With Spectators as Insurance Man Scoops Up Swarm by Handfuls

With both hands brimming with honey bees, Ernest F. Deacon, an insurance man of 75, Mansfield avenue, stood on a roof in the heart of Atlanta Thursday morning and saved a whole hive which suddenly appeared swarming among the skyscrapers.

From the windows of nearby office buildings hundreds of people craned their necks to watch the amateur bee-catcher at his work, and for nearly three hours the spectacle was the most unique Atlanta has seen since Haley's comet.

Where the bees came from, nobody knows. Pedestrians on Forsyth street first noticed them about 10 o'clock when the brown cloud suddenly swept over the roof of the Austell building and looked like the flight of the locusts of old. The air was thick with bees, swarming without a sound over downtown roofs, drifting into office windows and out again, clustering around chimneys, cornices and eaves. They were quietest above the roof of the Central club, 9 North Forsyth street, and it was there they finally settled, piled inches deep about a ventilator in the hot sunshine. Then Mr. Deacon appeared on the scene. He carried a pair of packing boxes. With those and his two hands he garnered in the bees, assisted by the presence of six office boys and the advice of several score experts in the windows, who recommended everything from whiskey straight to a whisk broom.

"Tell them a Ford joke and put them to sleep," suggested a man from a roof on the right.

"Those are Italian bees," yelled another from a window on the left. "Put a German pancake in the box and they will attack it."

"I never saw a bee before," replied Mr. Deacon, "but I am going after these."

And with that, he placed the open box next the swarm, grabbed a handful tenderly, put them inside and then stood off and watched while bee after bee followed the leader. In forty-five minutes there was not a bee in sight. They were all in the box. This Mr. Deacon wrapped in canvas, tucked under one arm and carried away.

He had captured bees worth about $25 in the center of Atlanta without getting stung once.

BATTLE TIDE TURNS AGAINST KAISER IN BALTIC

still is an absorbing topic of discussion with the English press. The text of the American note to Germany is awaited with great eagerness.

Germans Admit Retreat

From Courland in Russia—(By Associated Press.)—The German official announcement today states the German forces which invaded the Baltic provinces of Russia have retreated. The German withdrawal of the Baltic coast has been announced. The German withdrawal of the Baltic coast has been announced.

The statement follows:

"Western theater: Battles at Souchez, Neuville continue. Northwest of Souchez French attempts to make an attack were frustrated at the very start. West of Souchez, in the neighborhood of the Suar refinery, the French obtained minor successes. Our troops against our positions north of Neuville broke down. Advances attempted by the enemy east of Hebuterne failed. In the course of the latest battle there were French losses made prisoners. The French region of Souchez and Neuville we took possession of several enemy trenches.

"South of Les Meuniers a French position was taken by storm and maintained, notwithstanding an enemy night attack. A number of machine guns and four mine throwers fell into our hands.

"In the western part of the front of the front a section of our trenches remained in the hands of the enemy.

"Eastern theater: Southeast of Shaville the Russians offered strong resistance yesterday to our advance. Minor successes were made. The booty taken by us in the last two days in this district amounts to 2,250 prisoners and two machine guns.

"The enemy brought forward reinforcements from a northern position in opposition to our engine movement on the east of the Buzys. In account of this movement our attack was withdrawn toward the line of Belasova-Zoginze without being interrupted by the enemy.

"South of the Niemen we took 3,020 Russian prisoners while in pursuit of the enemy since June 8. We also captured two days, twelve machine guns and many field kitchens and carts.

"Southeastern theater: The situation east of Premezyl remains unchanged. Fresh Russian forces advanced from the region of Mikolajew and Rohatyn south and the southeast of Lemberg, respectively. Their attack was repulsed by parts of the army under General Lindebaum on the line of Litvina north of Drohobcz, and Zorawna in the Podlaskia section.

"East of Stanislaw and at Kalednia battles and pursuit continue."

Italians Take Town Only

16 Miles From Trieste

(By Associated Press.)—An official Italian statement issued last night at the Italian war office was as follows:

"Reports received of the operations on June 7 and 8 show that the Italians in pursuing along the Isonzo river the task of dislodging the Austrians from strong natural positions and establishing a bridgehead in the face of the enemy, met with great success. The Austrians, in the face of heavy obstacles, intensified by floods, were repulsed. The Austrians, in the face of heavy obstacles, intensified by floods, were repulsed.

"We have occupied the town of Falcone (sixteen miles northwest of Trieste, near the Adriatic). Our losses were not heavy, while we took 400 Austrian prisoners.

Germans Admit Loss of

Collier In Baltic Sea

(By Associated Press.)—Wireless to London, June 10.—A German ship, a collier, was sunk by a Russian submarine in the Baltic sea off the Gulf of Riga, according to reliable information obtained here. It is stated a German destroyer sailing by the side of the collier was slightly damaged by the same torpedo, but was able to make port.

Dental was made of a report published in the Army Messenger at Petrograd that there were explosions on other vessels attacked by Russian submarines or that any other damage was done.

Trawler Qui Vive and

the Edward Are Sunk

(By Associated Press.)—A dispatch from Mass. today says the crews of the British trawlers Qui Vive and Edward which have been sunk by German submarines were rescued by a Dutch steamer and brought into Mass. Luis.

French Continue Advance

Against German Lines

(By Associated Press.)—The French war office this afternoon issued the following:

"All last night there was a very violent artillery engagement in the region between Lorette and the Sugar refinery at Souchez. At 9 o'clock at night the French delivered an attack which was, however, at once repulsed.

"The Germans bombarded Neuville St. Vaast, but made no endeavor to recapture it. We made further progress yesterday in the Labyrinth."

"In the vicinity of Hebuterne we maintained all our advance on a front of 1,500 yards long and for a depth of about 1,000 yards.

"There is nothing further to report from the remainder of the front."

British Steamer Ernabolt

Sunk by a Submarine

(By Associated Press.)—The British steamer Ernabolt has been torpedoed and sunk off Harwich by a German submarine. The crew were rescued.

Austrians Now Giving

Italians Real Battles

(By Associated Press.)—(Rome, June 9.—(Via Paris, June 10.)—Efforts of Italian troops to force a passage of the Isonzo river are being stubbornly contested by the Austrians, but are meeting with success, according to a statement signed by General Cadorna, chief of the general staff, issued at the war office tonight. The communication follows:

"With the object of repulsing the enemy from dominant positions, he still holds on the right bank of the Isonzo, the Austrians are continuing their operations on June 7 and 8. The enemy offered a determined resistance and strong fortifications. Our passage was made more difficult by numerous obstacles placed on the bridges and in the roads and also by the Austrians establishing strong positions on the left bank of the river. Everywhere our troops fought with the enemy and succeeded in taking important positions which enabled us to occupy the city of Monfalcone. The Austrians' batteries considerably damaged the enemy's artillery at a number of points.

"In the difficult region of Montenegro a successful attack on our part led to the occupation of positions from which the Austrians, leaving 100 bodies which we buried and 60 wounded.

"Near Caporetto seventy Austrian soldiers surrendered.

"In other regions along the Isonzo we made over 400 prisoners. Our losses were unimportant. Prisoners say the Austrians losses were considerable.

"On the Tyrol-Trentino frontier our forces continue in close co-operation with the Italian army. The Austrians must be occupied in order to force the enemy to discontinue his defensive preparations and permit the development of ulterior operations.

"The Austrians determined resistance of the enemy, our troops have approached before the frontier close to Palanque on the frontier of the Dniepr.

"A victorious action was fought ten kilometers (about seven miles) north of Cortina d'Ampezzo. A piece of artillery was captured. The Austrians have been driven back. In the neighborhood of Monte Croce fighting has been going on for several days for the important position of Freikopel, which the Austrians defended desperately. Our Alpine troops definitely took it on the evening of the 8th, making 100 prisoners."

Austrians Cut Dykes but

Water Doesn't Stop Italians

(By Associated Press.)—(Via Paris, June 10.)—The Austrians have attempted to transform the lower region of the Isonzo river into a flooded country, duplicating the feat the allies in Belgium, for the purpose of halting the advance of the Italians. The Austrians, however, were opened, the banks of the river were broken down and several canals were tapped. The results achieved were insignificant, however, as most of the water was absorbed by the earth or carried off by ditches. No serious inconvenience for the invading Italians was occasioned.

Two More British Trawlers

Sent Under by Submarine

(By Associated Press.)—(Rome, June 10.—(Via London, June 10.)—The trawlers Tullius and Castor have been sunk by a German submarine.

The Tullius crew, which was allowed five minutes in which to leave the boat, arrived here today. The vessel was sunk with bombs. The Castor crew was picked up at sea. In this case also bombs were used by the German submarine.

The submarine pursued another trawler but the arrival of a patrol boat saved it.

Crew of Trawler Rescued

After 52 Hours at sea

(By Associated Press.)—(HARTFORD, June 10.—(By Associated Press.)—The crew of the trawler Velez, which has been sunk by a German submarine, were landed here this morning after being fifty-two hours at sea in a small boat without food.

The men were in a terrible state of exhaustion when picked up by the vessel which brought them to port.

The submarine fired five shells at the Velez to send her to the bottom.

Another Trawler Sunk by a German Submarine

(By Associated Press.)—(LONDON, June 10.—(The Grimby steam trawler Nottingham was sunk in the North sea Monday by the shell fire of a German submarine. The crew was saved.

Austrians Abandon One of Forts in Arsa Valley

(By Associated Press.)—(Paris, June 10.)—The Italian troops which are invading Austria through the Arsa valley toward the Adriatic coast, have forced the Austrians to abandon Fort Pissach, two miles north of Matsovo.

Fort Pissach was rated as one of the strongest Austrian fortifications in that region. It was equipped with heavy guns, said to have been brought from Italy. The Austrians destroyed the fortifications.

KAISER TURNS DOWN DEMAND OF WILSON IN CASE OF THE FRYE

Indemnity. There would, therefore, be no claim against the price court. The government under the price court would not grant indemnity in accordance with the treaty. In such event, however, the German government would not be obliged to arrange for equitable indemnity notwithstanding.

"For the rest, price proceedings of the case of the Frye are independent apart from the American claims, for the reason that other claims of the neutral and enemy interested parties are to be considered in the matter.

"As was stated in the note of April 14 last, the price court should have to decide the question whether the destruction of the ship and cargo was legal; whether and under what conditions, the property sunk was liable to confiscation and to whom and in what amount indemnity is to be paid provided application therefor is received.

"Since the decision of the price court must first be awaited before any further position taken by the German government, the simplest way for the American interested parties to settle their claims is to enter them in the competent records in accordance with the provision of the German code of prize proceedings.

"The undersigned begs to suggest that the ambassadors bring the above to the knowledge of his government and avail himself, etc.

SHORTER COLLEGE ENDS SUCCESSFUL SESSION

Extensive Improvements to Be Made at Rome School During Summer

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)—ROME, Ga., June 10.—The most brilliant commencement season in all its history has ended, and shorter college has closed its session for the summer. President Van Hoose has moved his office to one of the attractive bungalows near the college, on the college grounds from which all business will be transacted during the summer. Several members of the faculty will spend their vacation at home, or in sight seeing, but a large number will go to Columbia or Chicago and other educational centers.

Miss Anne Raynor, professor of German and Spanish, will study at Columbia, as will Miss Virginia Wendell, who succeeds Mrs. Lindsey as lady principal. Miss Blanche Vail will study in Boston making a specialty of her symposium work. Miss Edith Van Giltwill will study violin in New York.

During the summer an additional chemistry laboratory will be installed for organic work. The biological laboratory also will be greatly enlarged and the work extended, while in the north Prof. Arnett will purchase a complete outfit for a psychological laboratory.

SLATON INDICATES HE'LL ACT IN THE FRANK CASE

The length of their rebuttal argument would depend on the scope and nature of Solicitor Dorsay's argument.

Governor Slaton asked Attorney Howard how long it would take him (the governor) to read the record, to which Attorney Howard replied that it would take, in his opinion, about ten hours.

GOVERNOR'S REMARK. Then the governor made the remark indicating that his purpose is to decide on the application himself and not pass it over to Judge Harris. He said:

"I have my message to the legislature to write, and have other details of closing my administration to dispose of, all of which will keep me very busy until the last day of my term. So if there was any way in which the responsibility for passing on this case could be left to my successor, I would be inclined, owing to the shortness of time allowed me to study the case, to do so. But excellently dated and for Frank's execution, June 22, comes within my term. I would like for you gentlemen to expedite the hearing as much as possible, to give me time to familiarize myself with the record and the arguments."

Solicitor Dorsay said:

"I am sure your excellency can read the record in less than two days. Turning to Attorney Howard 'The motion to postpone the hearing is based on arguments. Six or eight of the 103 grounds refer to the charge of an unfair trial. If you went into that matter I can't say how long it would take me to reply. In other words, my case depends on yours. If Judge Roan's letter is addressed I might go into that. All things considered, I would rather for the hearing to start Saturday."

WHAT FRANK ASKS.

Attorney Howard said:

"We do not propose to ask your excellency to review this case from a legal standpoint. We don't want to see more than will enable your excellency to say whether this man is guilty or innocent. At least to say there is a middle ground of doubt. We will simply ask your excellency to do what you can since the trial has had the power to do—namely, to change the sentence imposed upon this man from death to life imprisonment. We will probably use three hours to present our case, but in view of the vague and indefinite attitude of Solicitor Dorsay we cannot say how much time we shall need to reply to his argument. We would rather begin Friday."

The governor said he felt disposed to accommodate the solicitor and would therefore set Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to begin the hearing. He said he would finish his message to the legislature in the meantime and be ready to sit all day Saturday, Saturday night, and all day Sunday, and all day Monday night if necessary. Tuesday morning he would have to leave the city, he said.

Attorney Howard and Solicitor Dorsay retired to the governor's reception room, and conferred as to the showing each would make.

The governor said he felt disposed to accommodate the solicitor and would therefore set Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to begin the hearing. He said he would finish his message to the legislature in the meantime and be ready to sit all day Saturday, Saturday night, and all day Sunday, and all day Monday night if necessary. Tuesday morning he would have to leave the city, he said.

Attorney Howard and Solicitor Dorsay retired to the governor's reception room, and conferred as to the showing each would make.

The dove of peace has blown from office.

With 550,000,000 bushels of wheat in prospect, and some of it in the south, there is no danger of a food shortage in the United States, war or no war.

The War's Most Stirring Feat.

The war has witnessed few exploits so stirring as that of the young British aviator, Lieutenant Warford, who with his agile aeroplane attacked and destroyed a giant Zeppelin less than a mile in the air. The incident occurred in Belgium, between Ghent and Brussels, in the faint glimmer of a June dawn. "The Zeppelin, which was flying comparatively low," the dispatches relate, "began to mount at once, but the British was speedier and climbed into the air in long spirals to reach a position over the German's vast bulk. Then followed, for the aviator, sharp maneuvering and finally the dropping of bombs from which the dirigible tumbled vainly to escape. Minor explosions ensued, and at last one of terrific force, and the Zeppelin burst into flames." So violent were the swirling air currents thus created, that Warford's machine turned completely over, and for some minutes he was hanging head downward. But he regained control, and after circling above the enemy's lines flew safely off to his home station.

The mental and moral power which this performance required are no less remarkable than the physical endurance and dexterity that went into its execution. Brain and hand alike were taxed to the utmost. Nerves of iron and a genius for clear, rapid decision were needed. The machine with which the daring adventure was accomplished is marvelous enough, but infinitely more so are the courage and skill of the man who mastered it. Interestingly enough, Lieutenant Warford made his trial flight only a few months ago; and Americans are pleased to learn that he is a Canadian by birth and upbringing.

Germany having muzzled the press, it begins to look as if the American attitude was beginning to be taken seriously over there.

More Packing Houses.

The movement to provide market facilities for home-grown foodstuffs goes steadily forward. Among the more recent evidences to this effect is the announcement that a company is being organized to build at Phenix City, Alabama, just opposite Columbus, Georgia, a sixty thousand dollar plant, including an abattoir, a packing house, a cannery and refrigerating service. The promoters of this enterprise expect to be able to handle during the first year twenty thousand hogs and fifty thousand hoes, besides large quantities of truck farm products.

Capital is evidently awakening to the need and the opportunity in this field of investment. From many points of the South come reports of newly established or definitely planned grain mills, canning factories and packing houses. These undertakings, whether large or small, are significant. They promise a ready demand at fair prices for the South's increased output of food animals and foodstuffs, this year, and they will also encourage such production in the years ahead. Furthermore, these industries afford employment to hundreds of persons and energize the business interests of the communities in which they are established.

The merchants and bankers and railroads of Georgia, in co-operation with the farmers, have rendered important service in developing market facilities for food crops. Their efforts are of vast consequence to the State's welfare and progress, and should be vigorously continued.

Think of the fighting in Mexico if Mexico had a navy, too.

Immigration After the War.

There is a wide diversity of opinion as to whether the war will be followed by a vast tide of immigration to the United States. Some observers predict that poverty and suffering and fear of crushing taxation will drive millions of Europeans to America. Others argue that the work of restoration will bring an unprecedented demand for labor, will create new opportunities and will constrain the Governments of the Old World to adopt forceful measures, if need be, to keep their diminished populations at home.

The latter view appears the more logical. European wars heretofore have led to large migrations to America. That was notably the case in the aftermath of the Franco-Prussian war and also following Russia's war with Japan. But the present struggle is unparalleled in its scope, its destruction of human life, and the economic conditions it entails will be unexampled in history. Even the more densely populated countries will face a dearth of agricultural and industrial producers, and probably will take due steps to prevent a further loss of workers. It should be noted, moreover, that the United States while welcoming desirable immigration bars the maimed, the diseased and the obviously inefficient. For these reasons our immigration problem is likely to be less serious for some years to come.

Mr. Bryan's View.

It is deeply to be regretted that in resigning from the Cabinet Mr. Bryan has seen fit to exploit views which, though undoubtedly sincere are at sharp variance with his country's interests and honor as well as with the mass of its thoughtful and patriotic opinion. For his stanchness to personal convictions, there can be nothing but profound respect. If he believes that concord is to be desired even above justice and that rather than risk Germany's hostility the United States should shrink its duty and smother its conscience, no one will deny him the freedom of his faith. But even those who admire Mr. Bryan most cordially are pained that he should go so far in this hour of national crisis as to antagonize the policies by which the Administration is striving to uphold the country's rights and so far, in effect, as to hold a brief for the Kaiser's Government.

In his letter of resignation to the President, Mr. Bryan said, "Alike desirous of reaching a peaceful solution of the problems arising out of the use of submarines against merchantmen, we find ourselves differing irreconcilably as to the methods which should be employed." That is the pith of the matter. President Wilson is devoted to the principles of peace as heartily as Mr. Bryan is; and he will labor just as earnestly and, we believe, much more wisely than Mr. Bryan to prevent war. The astonishing and regrettable thing is that the former Secretary of State should follow his resignation with a criticism which embodies essentially the same plea set forth in the last note of Herr von Jagow.

Mr. Bryan insists that the Lusitania issue, which involves the integrity of international law, the rights of neutrals throughout the world and the barbarous sacrifice of more than one hundred American lives, be left interminably in the mazes of diplomatic parley without demanding in the meantime guarantees against the repetition of such an outrage. As to the facts of the Lusitania's murderous destruction, our Government is fully and accurately informed. It knows that this vessel was an unarmed merchantman, that the German submarine fired without a moment's warning, without exercising any of the due precautions of visit and search, without any effort to save the neutrals and non-combatants aboard, and that as a result hundreds of innocent lives, including helpless women and children, were hurled to terrible death. If the German Government wishes to debate these facts and the principles at stake, it must first give assurance that its submarines will commit no more such crimes while the case is in court. That in substance is the position which the President has taken, and that is the position from which Mr. Bryan dissents.

The President stands for peace, but he stands also and primarily for justice and humanity. If there is one American above all others who can be trusted to preserve honorable peace, he is Woodrow Wilson. But he does not want shameful peace, nor do the American people. The President's straightforward firmness, moreover, is a far surer means to the prevention of war than any amount of soft temporizing could be. We cannot expect Germany to respect our rights unless we respect them ourselves.

In its note of May the thirteenth our Government demanded that Germany disavow the wrongs complained of, that it make reparation, "so far as reparation is possible for injuries without measure," and that it take "immediate steps" to prevent the recurrence of anything so obviously subversive of the principles of international law. From those righteous demands, we cannot recede with wisdom or honor. The President is determined that they shall be pressed home and receive a prompt, unequivocal answer. Mr. Bryan pleads that they be postponed indefinitely. The President speaks from the standpoint of America, Mr. Bryan from the standpoint of Berlin.

The President is proceeding carefully but firmly upon principles of national and international right. He is acting for the interests of the nation through those to come as well as its interests today, he is acting in behalf of the things which this republic holds sacred, and in behalf of humanity. His policy is fearless, honorable, just; and the people are unitedly behind him.

The armies are still keeping the lock on deadlock. The Italian official statements are again on the offensive.

Mexico's bread line is the inevitable sequel to the red line.

Editorial Echoes

There's one thing to be said for Huerta. He's not giving any advice these days to President Wilson. —Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

A commission in New York has decided that 17.78 inches of seating space is plenty for the average person in a street car or elsewhere, but, of course, some folks are far wider and some considerably narrower. It doesn't do a very wide person any good to know that the person sitting next him has a beam of six inches when his, or her, own width is in the neighborhood of 20, unless the narrow person is willing to occupy less than the average space in order that the wide one may occupy more. A carpenter or a draftsman might be able to say roughly by observation what man's average width is, but it is better to have the figures from actual measurements, down to the hundredth of an inch. It adds to the sum of knowledge to know that the average human beam is 17.78 inches.—Savannah News.

Take Time to Breathe.

BY H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

To be truly efficient—to be able to think readily and clearly, to secure thorough control of eye and hand, to approach your work in the confident spirit that of itself goes far toward splendid success—it is important to maintain a good circulation of blood through the brain, the supreme organ of the nervous system.

Among much else that you should do to gain this desirable end, and something that the majority of people fail to do, is to be sure that you breathe properly.

Most persons do not breathe deeply enough, and most persons breathe far more rapidly than they should. They breathe as they live—in a hurry.

I have a friend whose health used to be far from robust. Recently I met him for the first time in several years, and was surprised at the improvement in his appearance. He actually looked younger than when I had last seen him.

"How did you do it?" I asked him.

"By learning how to breathe," was his reply.

"Somebody told me I could improve my health by pausing every now and then to take a few deep breaths. I practiced this on the ferryboat going to my office and when homeward bound."

"Now I find that I habitually breathe both more slowly and more deeply than used to be my custom, and I also find that I am able to work more energetically and effectively. The feeling of fatigue and anxiety, which used to oppress me, that formerly oppressed me, is entirely gone."

As an aid in training one's self to breathe properly, and at the same time as a useful exercise to overcome the common tendency to hurry, I recommend lying full length on your back, with your arms at your sides, inhaling and exhaling the air at a slow, even rate. There should be a slight pause between each breath to avoid any feeling of strain.

An exercise of this sort, carried out faithfully once a day, will soon develop in you a habit of breathing more slowly and fully than before. As this habit grows on you, a marked improvement in your physical and mental powers may confidently be looked for.

"A Dust Whom England Bore."

A few weeks before the death of Rupert Brooke in a hospital ship off the Dardanelles, he wrote a sonnet sequence on the war, in which he faced with quiet unobtrusiveness the thought of dying for his country. Brooke was one of England's greatest poets. The son of a master at Rugby, born in 1897, he took his degree at Cambridge university in 1919, then traveled and wrote, contributing verse and sketches to the London weeklies. He was regarded as a man of the highest literary promise and from the regretful untimely death of this young poet, England has lost one of her greatest literary treasures.

When he gathered that he had all the physical air and grace which it is interesting to imagine poets endowed with. He seems to have had a "glamor" and a "charming self-possession" that made him independent of events. When England joined the eventful conflict Brooke observed, "Well, if Armageddon is to come, I should like to be there." He accepted a commission in the naval division and had his first taste of war at Antwerp, where he lay in the trenches under German shell fire. Returning home he was sent to the Dardanelles, where he died of subacute at Lemaon, where he was buried. Lancelotti Abernethy, one of Brooke's associates in the quarters, "New Numbers" in which the sonnets were recently published, himself a brilliant critic and poet, says of them: "I am strangely mistaken if I suppose that the English poetry does not speak to us in these lines."

PEACE.

Now, God be thanked Who has matched us with His hour,
And caught our youth, and wakened us from sleeping,
With hand made sure, clear eyes, and sharpened power,
To spend our strength, our time, our lives, our loves,
Glad from a world grown old and cold and weary,
Leave the sick hearts that honor could not move,
And half-men, and the richer sort who dream,
And all the little emptiness of love.
Oh! we, who have known grief, we have found release there,
Where there's no ill, no shame, but sleep as mending,
Naught broken save this body, lost but breath;
Nothing to shake the laughing heart's long peace
But only agony, and that has ended;
And the worst friend and enemy is but Death.

THE DEAD.

Blow out, you bugles, over the rich Dead!
There's no more sorrow for those long and cold,
But, dying, has made us rarer gifts than gold.
These laid the world away; poured out the red
Sweet wine of youth; gave up the years to be
Of work and joy, and that unthought serene
That men call awe; and those who would have been
Their sons, they gave, their immortality.
Blow, bugles, blow! They brought us, for our dearth,
Holiness, lacked so long, and Love, and Pain.
Honey has come, like a king, to earth,
And paid his subjects with a royal wage;
And Nobleness walks in our ways again;
And we have come into our heritage.

GLOOMY.

These hearts were woven human joys and cares,
Washed marvelously with sorrow, swift to mirth.
The years had given them kindness. Dawn was theirs,
And sunset, and the colors of the earth.
These had seen movement, and heard music; known
Slumber and waking; loved, gone proudly friend;
Felt the quick stir of wonder, set alone;
Touched flowers and furs, and cheeks. All this is ended.
There are waters blown by changing winds to
And lit by the rich skies, all day. And after,
Frost, with a gesture, staves the waves that dance
And wandering looms, and leaves a white
Unbroken glory, a gathered radiance.
A width, a shining peace, under the night.

THE SOLDIER.

If I should die, think only this of me:
That there's some corner of a foreign field
That is forever England. There shall be
In that rich earth a richer dust concealed;
A dust whom England bore, shaped, made aware,
Gave, once, her flowers to love, her ways to roam,
A body of England's, breathing English air,
Washed by the winds, sprung from once home.
An Irishman's heart, all ev'ning here,
A pulse in the eternal mind, no less
Gives somewhere back the thoughts by England given;
Watches the sunset, dreams the wars, the day;
And laughter, learnt of friends; and gentleness,
In hearts at peace, under an English heaven.

COUNTRY CLUBS

BY FREDERIC J. HASELIN

THE country club is an organized expression of the great outdoor recreation movement which has taken so powerful a hold upon the present generation. Over a thousand country clubs have been organized in the United States within twenty years, and the number is steadily growing. A few of them are in the millionaire class, and have appointments suited to the tastes and means of their members, but most of them belong to people in moderate circumstances. Many of these are near towns of less than 25,000 population.

The most elaborate country clubs are those in the vicinity of New York, although several located in southern California and other winter resorts rival them. The Sleepy Hollow club, of New York, is probably the most luxurious country club in the United States. It is a thoroughly country club, with a very wealthy membership, and is located upon the famous Shepherd estate, one of the most attractive parts of the Hudson valley.

Mr. Elliott Shepherd began buying land for this estate in the style, with the idea of creating a great country home, similar to the old English estates. He obtained over 600 acres. The Shepherd holdings include a number of smaller estates. The old mansion upon one of them is now utilized as a special golf and tennis house for the accommodation of the Sleepy Hollow members who are interested in these sports. This building alone would afford a satisfactory home for a club, as it has lounging rooms, ladies' reception rooms, a grill, a number of bedrooms, and luxurious baths.

The club proper is the Shepherd residence. It still contains most of the treasures which made it notable a few years ago among the magnificent private homes of this country. They were collected chiefly from old houses and palaces of Italy, and are almost priceless in their rarity. The house was designed by the late Stanford White, and is considered almost perfect in all respects. It is the most complete of the Italian Renaissance style with high columns, and a semi-circular portico surrounding an antique Italian well. It looks out upon a typical Italian garden, laid out in formal style with a fountain basin and pergola. It has eighteen luxurious bedrooms for members and guests, baths of every kind, a library and dining rooms.

In addition to the golf links and tennis courts, which are the pride of the club, arrangements have been made for fishing, some of the tennis courts and freezing ice for winter skating. A toboggan slide of unusual length has been recently added, which has a remarkable view of the country. The usual arrangement of inclines. The club garage accommodates over 200 automobiles, and has stables for horses. The clubhouse is a masterpiece of architecture, and is limited to 1,000. It now numbers about 700.

Scarcely less luxurious, except in the furnishing of the club house itself, is the Piping Rock Country Club, which is also largely composed of New York millionaires. This club is noted for its equestrian sports, and for the country. The country is a most prominent feature than golf and tennis. The Piping Rock Club House is an annual event for New York society. It is a most complete and exceedingly picturesque structure. It suggests comfort and roominess rather than magnificence. It surrounds a central court, covered with snow white gravel, upon which glass-enclosed loggia open. The furnishings are simple but attractive. This club is open all the year. The lounge room, with its enormous open fire, is used for dancing. There is a good bathing beach, with cottages and private bath houses. The outdoor sports, including golf, tennis and ball, are supplemented by bowling and other indoor amusements for bad weather. The food of the club is famous, and each season Piping Rock club novelties figure upon the menus of exclusive New York cafes.

The Atlanta Athletic club, and the Audubon Country Club, both in Atlanta, are among the country clubs of the southern cities. The Atlanta Athletic club is an outgrowth of the Y. M. C. A. and is open to all. It is a most complete athletic club with broader privileges. At first the club erected a city building for athletic purposes. Then came the call of the great outdoors. Now the club occupies a site of 200 acres, and has a clubhouse outside the city, which provides ample facilities for golf, tennis and ball, and also for boating. A luxurious clubhouse and a thousand members, paying $450 each for annual dues, give this club exceptional advantages.

Outward Bound.

All life is a voyage. Our ancestors and our circumstances to some extent determine for us the baggage we shall take, but for most of the reactions and selections we are responsible ourselves. It is a curious fact that the anxiety of many is to load themselves down with all manner of encumbrances so that, slaves to their own belongings, they cannot move when and where they would. We collect the useless against a day of possible need; we save and hoard and scrimp to the point of lavish spending that never does us good. We are so busy that we do not have time to deny ourselves and the darkness overtakes us; still clutching and grubbing and refusing proffered crowns. The meanest life of all is that which takes in order to have, not to give. Perseverant accumulators, we adhere to things to which we have no real interest, and even when we fantasitically imagine that we are a them and carry them with us when we go. The self-made man of business piles dollar on dollar, then puts some on stone to erect a grand house and adds acre to acre, with a regal disregard of cost, around it. And just when he looks with a swelling spirit on all this Babylon he is hounded by its hanging gardens and its shrines and fountains, one swing of the sword of the great angel cuts him down; there is no privilege granted him that is not the position of the day laborer who tamps the track or carries a hod.

The more a man is possessed by his possessions, the less he is inclined to heed the call to any trail except that to the gold-digger's mine. He is not a man of spirit. He does not care to risk vast interests; he does not want to jeopardize his health, or incur the personal discomfort of habit is fixed, his physical condition is determined; he has outgrown the age of adventure, and cannot know the irrational and surprising fever in the blood. The senatorial wisdom is nothing to be scorned; there are those who, when it is to stay and promote the social solidarity, and there are frisk lines in business or in domesticity as well as in war. But let us say "adieu" to "push" put" be sure of his reason; let him know that he is stationary because duty, and not a love of selfish ease, constrains him.

There are so many kinds of travel that have nothing to do with physical migration. "I climb when I lie down," cried Henry Vaughan, the mystic, and what he meant by that many a "shut-in" would do well to put in the window curtain? They cannot take a ticket and put a girle around the globe in the material body; but the spirit is a spirit. In the spirit, the body is made of a warm and comfortable environment, they go "over" many a frozen, many a fiery hell, startled by an "idea" they endure like good soldiers every sort of hardship, privation, and the work may be seen only a little bit of old person in a wheel-chair or a sick bed, as Florence Nightingale dwelt for more than half a century, but in reality, in the mind, he was making long marches between the rise and the set of the sun, and in the first of life to the end of it eager for all that comes, upon the last great adventure of all—Public Legend.

The splendid climate of the southwest has been especially conducive to the development of the country club, and few cities exceeding 5,000 population in that region without such an organization. Golf is the chief attraction at most of these, and two or three western clubs are laying claim to the largest golf links in the world. Their membership includes many eastern millionaires who have established winter residences in this land of sunshine. In addition to the large and palatial clubs, there are a great number of small country clubs, of a more modest means. At least thirty of these small clubs are to be found within a radius of fifty miles from Los Angeles.

Most of these small establishments do not represent more than $10,000 of original outlay, and some of them are very old. The funds are usually secured either by the formation of a stock company, in which each member takes a share, or by arranging for a mortgage upon the grounds and buildings, to be paid from the club dues. The stock company method is most popular, because it makes each member a part owner. Since each member is the chief object, the club house is simple and inexpensive. It is usually a cottage or bungalow, plainly furnished, provided with a swimming shower and a small grill. The golf course is most important. In a small club recently organized much filling in was required to complete the eighteen-hole course. The young members put on old clothes and did a large part of this manual work themselves.

A club organized three years ago in southern California is regarded as a model by its members and others familiar with it. Two hundred shares of stock were sold for $10,000. Half of this sum was put into the club house and furniture. The balance of the money was used to buy a movable restaurant, the tables being set upon the porch on fine days, or in the lounge room if the weather is bad. A woman cook and two waitresses take care of the dining service under the direction of a steward, who changes the bill of fare daily. A young Scotchman, well versed in the art of the links, is the club professional, and in direction keep the grass in perfect order, while he is ready to give instruction when desired.

Contrary to general opinion, the country club is not a luxury within reach of none but the wealthy. Many of the largest clubs have dues low enough to make them available to the average citizen. The Atlanta City Country club, originally organized by Philadelphia millionaires, reduced its dues to $20 several years ago. The annual dues of at least two-thirds of the country clubs in the United States do not exceed $25 in Anniston, Ala., they are $16 in Coronado, Cal., $15 in Burlington, Ia., $12. Even the Oakland club, a fashionable organization of Long Island, which requires members to buy stock, still carries out the democratic principle by arranging golf-playing privileges for non-members for $20 annually.

Summer residents at resort hotels frequently establish country clubs at desirable locations. The famous resort at Manchester, Vt., was established by summer residents, who subscribed enough to build the house and lay out the golf course, which is one of the finest in the country. The house is a model of the centers for summer golf, and its courses are thronged from May to November. Many distinguished families have families in the links. Non-members may play for privileges. Several of the splendid golf courses of the south belong to country clubs organized by winter residents.

The country club of Pierre, S. D., had its origin in the Lodge of Pierre, an organization financed by fifty families of the city, at Manchester, Vt. The house was erected out in the Black Hills. It was fitted with plumbing and plenty of baths, but cost less than $5,000, including its furnishings. Tents and sleeping accommodations were provided for families who wished to stay out a few days. The house charges are 10 cents a day for each person, and plain wholesome food was provided for $1.00 a meal. It was a truly democratic organization.

A good sized country club in Ohio was made possible by the county going dry. A brewery had erected a hotel and amusement park on the shore of a small lake near the town. A few golf players had been playing on the adjacent land. The county was closed the property was for sale cheap. The Lake Side Country Club was organized with 400 members, including men and women. The dues are $10 for men and $20 for women. A model club house has been erected upon the old amusement park site. About half the members play golf, but other amusements have been added, so that the club is a most interesting family social center.

NO. 205—TIERRA DEL FUEGO.
This group of islands just south of South America and touched by the chill of the southern polar regions contains some of the most sombre and impressive scenery in the world. The main island is ribboned by a steep and rugged mountain range with its crest in the clouds and its feet in the sea. Great glaciers reach down from the perpetual snows upon the highest peaks to the misty folds along the coast, and all is overhung by gray rainclouds almost every day in the year. Between the mountain ridges are deep, misty valleys, while the whole of the interior is one great plain strewn with wet and chilly winds.

This damp and forbidding aspect of Tierra del Fuego led almost all travelers to describe it as a useless and uninhabitable sort of land. Although discovered by Magellan in 1520, very little was known about it until quite recently, when Argentina and Chile settled their perpetual snows upon the highest peaks. In spite of its dampness, the climate of Tierra del Fuego is found to be by no means unhealthy. The winters are in reality mild with the exception of occasional spells of very severe weather, while there is a delightful average summer temperature of about 50 degrees. The valleys and plains are rich in forest, and a profitable cattle industry is being built up in the parts of the territory owned by Argentina. There are some gold deposits, which are now being profitably worked, while the mountain forests contain many valuable woods and there are wide seams of lignite. There are several good harbors, where little towns are growing up, and a bright future for this long neglected land.

The natives of Tierra del Fuego are a unique and interesting people, who are the last remnants of the Onas, who are the principal tribe of the main island, are a splendid copper-colored race whose men average nearly six feet in height, and whose women are famous for hunting. These Onas are perhaps the swiftest and most powerful men on earth, for they run down wild game at a great speed of foot. Their existence depends upon their physical fitness, and they make a religion of health and strength, killing off the unfit among themselves like the ancient Spartans. These savages, however, have refused to accept the civilization of the white man and adapt themselves to his ways of living. With the result that they are rapidly decreasing in number. The Onas, I thought, have been called the "Land of Fire" because of the fires which are called by Magellan, but the numerous fires so called by Magellan are the islands were free which these Indians built along the beaches.

DANIELS GIVES VIEWS

ON BRYAN'S RESIGNATION

Secretary of Navy Expresses Himself in News and Observer Editorial

The Raleigh News and Observer, owned and controlled by Joseph Daniels, secretary of the navy, has published an editorial on Secretary Bryan's resignation from President Wilson's cabinet. The editorial is interesting in the history between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Daniels because of the loss of the German note regarding the loss of American life on the Lusitania.

Mr. Daniels yesterday gave out a statement in Washington denying rumors that he intended leaving the cabinet. In his statement he said that President Wilson was right, that the cabinet was not the property of the president and that the nation would be the better for the loss of the cabinet.

The editorial in the Raleigh News and Observer is only seeking to subvert the cause of humanity, and the cause of the nation. It is a guide to all civilization—shall be the rule of the nation.

The editorial in full follows:

The secretary of State Bryan has resigned. It is a fact that he has been expelled from his position as chief of the cabinet. The cause of his resignation is a matter which comes to vast numbers of the people of this country with a sense of personal regret. The cause of the nation's greatest leaders, each strong man, each with a distinct personality of his own, these men have been expelled from the cabinet. It is a fact that the secretary of State Bryan has resigned. It is a fact that the secretary of State Bryan has resigned. It is a fact that the secretary of State Bryan has resigned.

Throughout the country the news that Secretary Bryan has resigned has been met with a sense of personal regret. The cause of the nation's greatest leaders, each strong man, each with a distinct personality of his own, these men have been expelled from the cabinet. It is a fact that the secretary of State Bryan has resigned. It is a fact that the secretary of State Bryan has resigned. It is a fact that the secretary of State Bryan has resigned.

SAYS AMERICAN MINORS

ENLIST IN BRITISH ARMY

Congressman Tague Asks Secretary Lansing to Investigate the Report

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Representative Tague, of Massachusetts, today asked Secretary Lansing to investigate charges that American youth taken in crews of British ships sailing from Boston, later were induced to enlist in the British army. Mr. Tague had letters from parents who alleged their sons had taken such a course. The question also is being investigated by the United States attorney at Boston.

Mr. Lansing assured Mr. Tague that upon presentation of proper proofs the state department would take steps to secure the discharge from the British army of any American minor who had enlisted without consent of their parents.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER FOR STATE LEGISLATURE

Chamber of Commerce Will Be Host at New East Lake Club House

Directors of the Atlanta chamber of commerce Wednesday afternoon decided to tender the governor, the president of the senate, the speaker of the house and members of the Georgia legislature a complimentary dinner at the new club house of the Atlanta Athletic club at East Lake early in the session, probably during the first week.

It is expected this will be an occasion of great distinction and will eclipse any of the dinners heretofore given by the chamber of commerce to the legislature.

Arrangements are in the hands of the executive committee of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, of which Colonel F. J. Paxton is chairman.

The East Lake club, recently completed, is one of the finest clubs in the south and is in the center of the beautiful East Lake grounds which include an extensive lake, boat houses, bathing facilities and golf links.

UNUSUAL TREAT FOR ATLANTA MUSIC LOVERS

Joseph Maerz, Famous Pianist, Will Assist at Organ Concert Sunday

Atlanta music lovers will be given an unusual treat Sunday afternoon at the free organ concert, when Dr. Kraft will be assisted by Joseph Maerz, a famous piano virtuoso now in the south and who has consented to come to Atlanta for this recital.

Mr. Maerz was first heard in Atlanta during grand opera week, when he played at the home of a friend for a number of Atlanta residents, including the director of the Music Festival association. They say he is the greatest pianist who has visited Atlanta in many years.

Mr. Maerz will play selections from Beethoven, Chopin, and Liszt, and will also play some of the latest compositions of the American public of Rafael Joseffy.

PEPPERON IS STIRRED BY REVIVAL SERVICES

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

PEPPERON, Ga., June 10.—The greatest revivals ever held in Butts county is in progress at the Baptist church at Pepperon. Rev. T. C. Gilbert, of Locust Grove, assisted by the pastor of the church, Rev. G. E. Harrow, has been preaching twice a day for more than two weeks. There have been eighty-eight accessions to the church.

BRYAN WILL HAVE AN EFFECT UPON THE ATTITUDE OF THIS COUNTRY IF THERE ARISES A BREACH WITH GERMANY

By President Wilson is inconceivable. This country is only seeking to subvert the cause of humanity, and all that it is calling for is that this and international law—these held as the guide of all civilization—shall be the rule of the nation.

Mr. Daniels yesterday gave out a statement in Washington denying rumors that he intended leaving the cabinet. In his statement he said that President Wilson was right, that the cabinet was not the property of the president and that the nation would be the better for the loss of the cabinet.

HOKE SMITH SUGGESTED AS SUCCESSOR TO BRYAN

Is "Exceptionally Well Qualified," Says Rome Tribune-Herald

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., June 10.—The Rome Tribune-Herald, commenting upon the resignation of Secretary William Jennings Bryan, suggested that Hoke Smith be appointed as his successor. The Tribune-Herald says: "Georgia, in its senior United States senator, has a man who would, we believe, measure up to the requirements of what is now perhaps the most difficult office in the government. Hoke Smith has already become the synonym for ability, tact and fitness where statesmanship is recognized or determination is considered the quality of a statesman. He is exceptionally well qualified from his experience as an adviser to the president in the cabinet of Cleveland. It should be Georgia's choice."

Mr. Edwin Campbell Walks to His Death Off Stone Mountain

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., June 10.—The mangled body of Mr. Edwin Campbell, aged about 20 years, who lived on Main street here, was found at the foot of the steepest portion of Stone Mountain this morning. Mr. Campbell, who was the son of W. P. Campbell, is presumed to have lost his life by falling from the mountain top.

Campbell fell almost 300 feet. He had been climbing since yesterday morning, his body being found after an all-night search.

The coroner will hold an inquest this afternoon.

His was the second death at almost the same point within a year, a Mr. Duffree having fallen to his death in September.

COMMITTEE OF 100 MEETS THIS AFTERNOON

Work of Surveying Operations of City Departments Will Be Outlined

The committee of 100, of which Colonel F. J. Paxton is chairman, will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock to outline the work of surveying the operations of the city of Atlanta in all its departments.

A committee of twenty-five ladies operating under the auspices of the city will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on call of Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, chairman. President Wilkinson and Colonel Paxton will outline to the ladies the work of the committee.

There would have been a joint session but for another meeting previously arranged at the home of Mrs. W. L. Felt, in which most of the committee of twenty-five ladies are interested.

STATSBORO IS AFTER PLACE ON BIG HIGHWAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

STATSBORO, Ga., June 10.—The ordinary and county commissioners are considering today with Edinburg county authorities with the view of building immediately an iron bridge across Okechee river at Pinefork. A delegation of from twenty-five to fifty leave here tomorrow morning for Louisville for the purpose of keeping Statsboro on the national highway.

Statsboro seems aroused and determined as it is evidenced by her willingness to invest her cash in a bridge across the Okechee, thereby doing away with the old jinks bridge at Blitchton which will lessen the distance from Statsboro to Savannah over the proposed new highway from here. This shortens the route about six miles.

GEORGIA BAR'S ATTITUDE ON PEACE COMMENDED

"Its Good Georgia Talk," Says New York Herald of Resolution Recently Adopted

Under the caption "In a Nutsell," the New York Herald of Wednesday prints the following editorial regarding the resolutions adopted by the Georgia Bar association at Brunswick last week: "Whimpering crying for peace, regardless of consequences," as they are denominated by Mr. Frank H. Harris, who wrote to The Herald from Brunswick, Ga., will derive very little comfort from a resolution adopted unanimously by the Georgia Bar association at its meeting last week. This declares: "We stand for peace, but not for peace at the sacrifice of one iota of national honor; for peace, but not at the risk of unlawful injury or destruction of American lives or property; for peace, but not for peace purchased by a tame submission to the violation of these principles of justice, humanity and the laws of nations that are and should be observed by all the civilized nations of the earth."

This, Mr. Harris explains, was not idle talk but an opinion on the subject of peace and national duty in which able lawyers join. He adds that these Georgians meant just what they said and "not one but who would promptly shoulder a musket in defense of the rights of the nation."

It is good "Georgia talk" and good Americanism. It states the whole case.

AGASCO

Atlanta

Stands for Quality

So great has been the demand upon us that the store of crude tar now available at our plant is only 200,000 gallons, notwithstanding we've been pouring in 500,000 gallons a year all this time.

Now the Reason:

We built success solidly. We maintain with great care the excellence of our output. We see that it adheres closely to United States Government specifications. Pratt Laboratory, Atlanta, analyzes and approves every batch before we let it go on the market. We cared little for quantity. We've stressed quality.

Women and Society

Al Fresco Dancing Party Event of Thursday Evening

The dancing party to be given by Mr. Charles I. Ryan will be an event of the evening at the Piedmont club and will be a charming complement to Miss Ellen Wright Wise, of Richmond, who has been delightfully entertained during the past two weeks as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Cohen.

The broad terrace of the attractive club will present a cool and inviting appearance banked with handsome palms and Australian tree ferns, while fountains of softly colored lights will illuminate the pretty scene and throw a radiance over the beautiful and airy summer costumes worn by the guests. Dinner will be served al fresco, the guests to be seated at small tables scattered here and there. The central decorations of each table will be sweet peas in a variety of pastel shades, and the dainty flower suggestion will be continued in every detail of the menu, individual cakes will be embellished with sprays of the June flower, while the hostess will be tiny sweet peas.

Mr. Ryan will be assisted in entertainment by his niece, Miss Isabelle Kuhn and Miss Lucile Kuhn. Invitations to meet Miss Wise at 100 members of the dancing contingent.

Druid Hills Golf Club

The regular Thursday evening dance will not be held this evening at the Druid Hills Golf club, as it was postponed until Thursday evening, June 24, on account of some changes being made in the terrace. The tea dance at the club on Saturday afternoon will be a bright occasion, for which many informal parties are being arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Alston's Guests
Miss Mrs. Robert Alston entertained at the tea dance at the Piedmont club Wednesday afternoon in compliment to Miss Ellen Wright Wise, of Richmond, Va., and for Miss Isabel Robinson.

The long table placed across one end of the terrace was adorned with a large wicker basket of blue corn flowers and pink carnations and at each end were two smaller baskets of the same pretty blossoms.
Miss Wise was crowned in ecru net embroidered in artistic design. Miss Robinson wore blue and white striped silk and Mrs. Alston wore a pretty afternoon gown of white chiffon combined with black.

Mr. and Mrs. Alston's guests included Miss Wise, Miss Robinson, Miss Margaret Traylor, Miss Louise Broyles, Miss Harriet McDaniel, Miss Margaret McKee, Miss Nan Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Robinson, Mr. Remsen King, Mr. Edward Barnett, Mr. Lynn Warner, Mr. Lewis Martin, Mr. Henry Newman, Mr. Neal Reed and Mr. John Hardisty.

Pan-Hellenic Dance
College pennants in every hue and streamers of yellow and white transformed the hall corner at the Druid Hills Golf club into a bright scene Wednesday evening, when the Pan-Hellenic dance assembled many students of the Georgia School of Technology and their friends for the final entertainment of the series which marked the brilliant commencement week.

Music was furnished by a stringed orchestra, and during an intermission at 12 o'clock a hot supper was served. Among the young girls present were Miss Mary Dole Biggs, of Sherman, Tex.; Miss Edith McKelvie, of Monticuma; Miss Virginia Fielder, of Cedar-town; Miss Susie Hatcher, of Columbus; Miss Marie Foster, of Texas; Miss Annie Watlington, of Oklahoma City; Miss Dade, of Macon; Miss Marion Jones, of Albany; Miss Annie Blinn, of Birmingham.

Miss Nellie Dodd, Miss Georgia Rice, Miss Dolly Blalock, Miss Alice Alton, Miss Mary Stewart, Miss Helen Smith, Miss Jane Cowles, Miss Dorothy Cowles, Miss Janie Cooper, Miss Isabel Gause, Miss Edwina Harper, Miss Mary Ross, Miss Rudine Lecht, Miss Margaret Olson, Miss Louise Jones, Miss Fernal Humphries, Miss Janet Hatcher, Miss Elizabeth Reed, Miss Kate Meekins, Miss Marie Hellenzelle, Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Marie Dinkins, Miss Evelyn Green.

Miss Nell Walker, Miss Reba Wilkins, Miss Charlotte Wilkins, Miss Hal Crawford, Miss Mae Hopkins, Miss Mae Crighton, Miss Myra Scott, Miss Marion Stearns, Miss Louise Debs, Miss Grace Woodworth, Miss Grace Symmes, Miss Ruth Wieg, Miss Carrie Blount, Miss Nell Choate, Miss Jessie Thompson, Miss Mary Thompson, Miss Josephine Smith, Miss Bettie Black, Miss Ethelene Tye, Miss Gladys Grant, Miss Winnie Perry, Miss Maude Perkins, Miss Katharine Perkins, Miss Gladys Byrd and Miss Laura Pickett.

The chaplains were Mr. J. W. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Adair, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stearns, Colonel and Mrs. George M. Hope, Mrs. Edward Carman, Mr. and Mrs. Ware Holliday and Mr. and Mrs. George Brown.

Garden Party
A garden party will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hudkins, 16 North Jackson street, on Tuesday, June 15, for the benefit of the First Christian church. The hours are from 4 till 10 and the public is most cordially invited. The children will be entertained during the afternoon by Mrs. Charles Goodman. Home-made cream and cookies will be sold as well as other refreshments.

Silver Service
In the single pieces and sets, so necessary to the elegance of serving any meal or refreshment, we feature variety, beauty, and quality.

And the prices are right.

Breakfast Party

Following the Pan-Hellenic dance Wednesday evening at the Druid Hills Golf club Miss Nell Walker entertained Thursday morning at breakfast at her home in Druid Hills. Daisies and Marshall Neil roses formed the attractive decorations of the pretty home and yellow corymbs lent a touch of bright color.

Miss Walker's guests included Miss Grace Bloodworth, of Forsyth, Miss Margaret Macdon, and Miss Anne Williamson, of Macon; Miss Ruth Rosser, Mr. R. H. Marshall, Mr. Edmund Mott, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Ralph Pries and Mr. Jim Pries.

Buffet Supper

The buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. George Westmoreland entertained Wednesday evening was a pretty complimentary to Miss Marcella Steedman and Mr. E. W. Smith and their wedding attendants.

Pink and white roses decorated the attractive home and in the dining room the table was bright with pink and white blossoms resting in a gold basket, the handle caught with airy pink tulle. Mr. and Mrs. Westmoreland were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Julian Prade, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith, of High Point, N. C., and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wier, of Athens.

Bridge Luncheon

Miss Ellen Wolf was hostess at a bridge luncheon Wednesday at her home on Peachtree place, where she was her guest, Miss Mary McMurray, of Waynesboro, and Mrs. George Brown, Jr., a recent bride.

Quantities of daisies, brown-eyed Susans and white sweetpeas formed the attractive decoration. The honor guests were presented with small smelling salt bottles, the prizes for top score and consolation were silk hose and a book.

Miss McMurray was crowned in white voile and lace, Miss Wolf wore a dainty frock of white crepe de chine and Mrs. Brown was attractive in pale green tulle and chiffon.

Twenty guests were entertained.

The June Undermuslin Sale is in progress now. Third Floor

The Store Closes at 1 o'clock Saturday

For Your Information

Friday and Saturday Will Be Two Really Wonderful Days in this Store

We started to say "Two Real Bargain Days." But the word "Bargain" is one we rarely ever use. We find other words synonymous--words that ring true here, or they do not ring at all. In an economic way, our claims must represent a higher standard of value than could ever be reached by price alone. Back of them must be genuine worth--sterling, real and sincere.

Choose early--if you would share these good specials--for in the very nature of things the merchandise will be disposed of quickly.

The trend of the savings is indicated by the Sterling Values quoted below--read them for proof positive that the purchasing power of a hundred cents will be almost doubled in this extraordinary two-days' sale.

Remnant Sale of Wash Goods at Half Price

Such a sale as this comes only once yearly. Nearly every kind of colored Wash Fabric you can think of is included.

The short lengths remaining from a busy season of selling. There are scores of lengths sufficient for dresses--many for blouses, kimonoes, skirts, children's suits and dresses. Included are--

Piques Crepes Printed Crepes
Poplins Rice Cloths Silk-Striped Shirtings
Reps Seco-Silk Mulls Various Others
Ratines Printed Voiles

Note: No White Goods Among Them

A Sale you do not want to miss. Not enough to make a full day's selling--so choose early Friday if you would share.

Second Floor.

Extra Special!

Women's $1.50 and $1.75 SILK STOCKINGS at $1.00 Pr. Good, heavy quality pure silk stockings--black, embroidered in dainty colors.

Women's lace-boot, lisle thread Stockings, black only. The 35c kinds, at 15c pair. The 50c kinds at 25c pair.

Women's Italian Silk Vests, pink and white; priced here regularly at $3 and $3.50--special for this sale at $1.50 each.

$3.50 LONG WHITE SILK EMBROIDERED GLOVES

AT $1.95--a little special collection! only 26 pairs all told.

Kayser's 16-button length, embroidered silk Gloves--black and white; priced regularly at $1.75--special for this sale at $1.25 pair.

Short white chamoisette Gloves--sizes 5 1/2 to 6 only; the same in natural color, all sizes, priced regularly at 25c--special at 19c pair.

Boys' summer Shirts and Drawers; athletic style; short-sleeve shirts, knee-length drawers; 6 to 15-year sizes--priced here regularly at 25c. You may buy them Friday and Saturday at 19c garment.

Infants' 15c Vests at 10c each. A little special lot of cool, summer Vests--some have short sleeves, some no sleeves at all.

MEN'S $1.50 PAJAMAS AT $1.19--initialed suits of beautiful quality, made of good, soft madras; blue, tan and white. A few letters are missing--but it's worth while looking for the initial wanted.

Men's $1.25 Night Shirts at 79c--made of good, soft cambric--initialed; a few letters missing.

First Floor.

Friday, Skirt Day

Our customers have learned that Friday is Skirt Day, and hundreds of them have profited by the special features we have planned for that day.

Tomorrow--

Beautiful Pre-Shrunk White Skirts at $2.50

They are made by the Wooltex tailors, and in the very latest models.

Two materials: very fine cord pique, and granite poplin. They have 5-inch hems. Particularly well tailored; and remember they are pre-shrunk even to the inside belt.

Also for Friday

New White GOLFINE Skirts at $5. --Fourth Floor.

$3 and $3.50 Silk Kimonos at $2.39

When you go to pack the bag or suitcase for a week-end visit, or for an extended trip--you will want a cool, pretty silk Kimono to slip in it.

Buy them Friday and Saturday at a saving. There are flowered effects and conventional designs in a variety of pretty color tones. Priced here regularly at $3 and $3.50--for this sale at $2.39.

(Downstairs Section.)

Wash Skirts, 29c

Tomorrow and Saturday morning will about end the story of these good Wash Skirts at this absurdly low price.

We had about 1,200--splendidly made garments of good materials--skirts that were priced at $1.00 formerly--we priced them for special selling at 35c--you may still share the sale of them, if you come early--and pay only 29c. There are white piques, tan and brown linens, and black-and-white checks, or all black.

Our Wonderful Sale of Genuine Diamond, Real Coral and Solid Gold Jewelry

Also Leather Goods that we are selling at one-half to one-fourth the regular prices, continues without the slightest let-up.

The remarkable values bought by our many friends has brought them back for more, and with their friends, who were amazed.

We hear exclaimed by our customers that they have attended jewelry sales before, but never have they shared in a Solid Gold, Diamond and Real Coral Jewelry Sale such as this. All we can say is come and see for yourself what wonderful values we offer.

Every Girl's Hat in Stock to Go Out in This Sale at Three Prices

One Group at $1.00

One Group at $2.49

One Group at $5.00

This is a truly wonderful offer by reason of the splendid choosing among Hats priced here regularly up to $10.00.

Girls going away for the summer need new Hats. You may pick them up in this sale Friday and Saturday at very, very little cost.

For girls of all ages--up to 20. Third Floor.

The Popular Puritan Collars

A shipment has come just in time for the week-end demand. These pretty Puritan Collars are quite "the rage" now, and small wonder, they are so dainty and becoming, and afford the feminine touch that women all like to possess.

They are of sheer organdie, hemstitched, some have scalloped edges, some bands of net, some lace trimmed. Choose from full, fresh stock, Friday and Saturday, at 25c and 50c.

First Floor.

Do Not Miss These

Corsets Up to $5 at 98c

A good quick sale of desirable Corsets at a price made absurdly small because the Corsets are display sold. There are various good models to select from. A very unusual offer for Corsets of such values.

Brassieres Up to $1.50

at 79c. Included are both B. & J., and "Model" Brassieres, which you know to be truly good and desirable. All fresh and in perfect condition; the size ranges are broken.

Little Girls' $1.00 and $1.50 Dresses at 49c

Here is one feature of the Sale that mothers of we girls will do well to take advantage of. These little dresses--2 to 6-year sizes--are made of beautiful gingham, and in various cunning styles; but because they are SOILED, we have marked them at a price to close them out quickly--49c--for regular $1.00 and $1.50 dresses.

Third Floor.

Girls' $3.50 Dresses at $2.98

Beautiful, New Dresses for older girls--4 to 12-year sizes. Stylishly made of rep--straight, one-piece models, with wide belt; the colors are Copenhagen or light blue, pink--pretty embroidered in white--or white dresses, embroidered in blue. Decidedly attractive and becoming.

A VIRGINIA BANKER SAYS

"I think the rules of the Federal Reserve Board will require that all persons whose paper is offered for rediscount to the Federal Reserve Banks to file statements which have been certified to by licensed accountants.

With such a statement, loans under the new financial system will be comparatively easy. Without it they will be next to impossible.

TWO JUDGESHIP CONTESTS NOW BEFORE GOVERNOR

Successor to Judge Daniel and Judge Reid Must Be Named

Two judgeship contests are now up to Governor Slaton. For several days he has been hearing and considering the claims of those applying for the Flint circuit judgeship, made vacant by the death of the late Judge Robert T. Daniel, of Griffin, and now he is called on to name a judge for the Stone Mountain circuit, to succeed the late Judge Charles S. Reid, of Decatur.

CONSUMPTOL CURES

Hundreds of sufferers have cured themselves at home with CONSUMPTOL, from terrible cases of Consumption, Asthma, Cough, and all other diseases of the Nose, Throat and Lungs.

CONSUMPTOL is a remarkable vegetable compound, non-alcoholic, that is inhaled directly on the diseased tissues with the steam of boiling water. It is thus wonderfully effective for killing the germs, and soothing and healing the diseased parts.

Don't delay, write today, enclosing $1 for a bottle. Our valuable booklet, "The Health Book," is free on request.
